

Method and Herbal Composition for Treatment of Diabetes

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention is a method and herbal composition of treatment for diabetes comprising the steps of providing a predetermined herbal composition in a predetermined form, providing an administration plan for a predetermined number of days; and administering the herbal composition according to the administration plan for a predetermined number of days. The herbal composition comprises Toona sinensis and Heracleum lanatum which is natural and does not have any adverse side effects. Toona sinensis is the major active ingredient for treatment of diabetes while Heracleum lanatum is used to provide an optimum body conditions for treatment.